Farm Technology Days - Marathon County, would like to announce the theme for the 2011 Farm Technology Days show held in Marathon County. “A Growing Tradition,” represents the generation of farmers from Marathon County’s past, present, and future. Marathon County’s growing tradition of family farms continues to make Marathon County an agricultural leader in the state.

The 2011 Farm Technology Days - Marathon County, will be held July 12th through the 14th. Seehafer Acres, owned and operated by Ken & Karen Seehafer, will be the host farm for the event.

Seehafer Acres is a 3rd generation family farm that was purchased by Ken’s grandfather in 1930. What started out as an 80 acre farm has now grown to over 600 acres and over 200 milking cows. Seehafer Acres is a picture perfect modern dairy facility, located north of Marshfield, showcasing cow comfort, herd management and conservation practices. Ken & Karen are excited to showcase their farm and honored to represent Marathon County.
